GENERAL NEWS.

The Madison county (Ohio) Enterprise says that two large ben constrictors, the property of Stewart Craven, escaped from their keepers, a company with three other snakes, a short time since. The boys have not, at last report, been captured. An alligator escaped about the same time, taking possession of a field near at hand, driving out the cattle and sheep in a very short space of time. Mr. Craven secured the monster by throwing a lasso over him, and is now confined in a small compass by a heavy board fence. The reptiles were formerly part of a man's rice making machinery.

A manufacturing firm of the name of "The Rubber India Rubber," has been started at Malden, England. This new kind of type is said to be fully equal in quality and durability to the common type, the cost being only one half of the latter. It offers the advantage of the weight as compared with metal type, and can be remolded when worn. It presents particular advantages for stereotyping. The invention is American, and is said to be making rapid progress in England.

Detectives are at work in Boston, ferreting in the particulars of a number of cases in which the leather dealers of that city have deceived the Government by making false claims. It is reported that one of the persons named has paid forty thousand and sixty thousand dollars, respectively, rather than his own doing made public.

The New York Herald indulges in a speculation as to the probable candidates for the next Presidency. The Radical nominee will be, it is said, either Chase or Butler, most probably Chase. Grant will be the Conservative candidate, and McLean the Democratic, though perhaps this nomination may be complicated by General Sherman's name.

General Sherman was called to Washington for the purpose of succeeding Mr. Stanton in the War Department, but as he manifests a reluctance to assume the duties of that office, it is probable he will be assigned to other important duty.

From Louisville we learn it is reported in the circles that the Court of Appeals has decided that General Palmer was guilty of felony consisting in the escape of slaves whilst he was in command of the military district of Kentucky.

Birth of "Shoddy."—There are a number of mixed fabrics with warp of cotton and shoddy of wool, which not long since were worthless, they could neither be converted into nature nor into paper; but by a very ingenious process these rags of mohair and alpaca are now reduced to their elements by the action of steam and water, and the result is a mass of six atmospheres in closed digesters, the wool is reduced to a fine black powder, known as an excellent manure, by the name of ammonia, leaving the cotton intact for the paper maker. An old woolen coat or suit is sometimes raked out of the shoddy; but this, if not too dirty, finds its way to the Yorkshire mill, where it is put into a "devil" and re-ground for shoddy. The material which furnishes most of the cheap garments of the shops, and for the matter of it, some of the fashionable Petershams, coats, and Wines, are made out of this material. When a garment is too worn to be mended, to this end it comes; and as may be supposed, the manufacture of shoddy has become a mighty trade, which is carried on mainly at the town of Batley, in Yorkshire. The amount of old clothes worked up through these mills annually, is equal to twenty thousand tons of raw wool; from this it will be seen what an enormous amount of fleeces we are saving from destruction, and what a very simple reconstruction of what but a few years ago was a useless rag.

Shoddy, in one of the most admirable of its poems (not "Hawthorne") says: "We are living, we are living, In a grand and awful age!" It would appear from the events which are transpiring, that the following may be taken as an example,—"We cry from a New York paper of Saturday:

"On Thursday evening at 6 o'clock a messenger was sent from this city to a London firm, asking a demand for a large sum of money. The messenger returned at half past eleven o'clock, and the New York agents of the London firm, at the same time, received by cable made the amount."

The message was sent from New York to London on Thursday evening at 6 o'clock, and the next morning at half past eleven o'clock the money was paid over agreeably to the order from the London House. Thus, parties more than three thousand miles apart, with a world of water rolling between, transacted business with as much facility and dispatch as though they were in a narrow strait between them. What a triumph of genius over what would seem to be insuperable difficulties! May we not say: "What a passing wonder!"—Lyons, Virginia.

The Paper Monopoly.—The high price of paper next to the high price of bread, is perhaps the burden most felt by our community. Americans can just as well go without a newspaper as without their food. Whatever the cause, it will increase its cost and put it beyond the reach of the poor. There is nothing to justify the exorbitant prices maintained by the American manufacturers. The rise in the price of paper has been seized upon as the pretext for a general increase in the price of everything. Making all due allowance for the fact that it does not afford any reasonable ground for a general increase in the price of everything, it is a narrow strait between them. What a triumph of genius over what would seem to be insuperable difficulties! May we not say: "What a passing wonder!"—Lyons, Virginia.

Whereas, Having entered the field for the Fall and Winter Campaign of trade, I am determined to repulse, if not entirely vanquish, the great system of monstrous prices and murderous profits, which have settled upon our whole country like a mighty incubus, sinking the poor into deeper depths of poverty, and dragging down the affluent, and even driving many to destruction; and Therefore, I, CHAS. A. GLADKE, 119 King street, between Pitt and St. Asaph, do hereby issue this proclamation, to dispose of my new stock, upon such terms as must give entire satisfaction.
